

NRI Joins the UN Global Compact

TOKYO, MAY 29, 2017 – Nomura Research Institute, Ltd. (CEO: Shingo Konomoto, HQ: Tokyo, “NRI”) became a signatory and participant of the UN Global Compact (“UNGC”) as of May 18, 2017.

The UNGC is a voluntary initiative. By joining the UNGC, companies and other organizations of the world participate in the development of a global framework for the realization of sustainable growth by exercising responsible and creative leadership.

UNGC signatories endorse the Ten Principles of the Global Compact. The Ten Principles outline fundamental responsibilities in the areas of the protection of human rights, elimination of unfair labor practices, environmental response, and anti-corruption. With the commitment of their top executives, signatories work continually toward the realization of these principles.

NRI will comply with and implement the Ten Principles of the Global Compact. Together with various stakeholders, NRI will also continue to create new value and, as a “Company creating future society,” fulfill its responsibility toward the resolution of social issues.
